CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT IN 1864

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

The election for county officers on Monday last passed off as is usual with elections in which there is not much interest taken by the people. Everything was conducted in a quiet and orderly manner, there being no appearance of excitement at the polls during the day.

Messrs Felipe Delgado, Rodriguez and Greiner were elected members of the House of Representatives and Maj. José D. Sans, Sheriff. The votes cast for the different candidates was very nearly equal, no one of the representatives having received more than a dozen majority. The usual majority in the county for what is known as the Gallegos party is between one hundred and fifty and two hundred.

The Navajos.

The Navajos may be at peace, but the people, owners of trains and herds, "can't see it," and suggest the propriety of a special order from the General Commanding, or a proclamation from his Excellency, the Governor, that will at least give the peaceful and industrious citizen an opportunity to defend themselves against these pests of the country, who under the cloak of friendship, and protection promised them, are stealing and plundering the property and taking the lives of our people.

By degrees the New Mexican has for the last three weeks past been approaching a position of opposition to the policy of locating the Navajo Indians on the Pecos river, at the Bosque Redondo, and in its last issue concluded an article headed "Navajos," in which it is argued that those Indians are not at peace, with the above quoted paragraph.

It never has been contended that the entire Navajo tribe has given in its adhesion to the terms of peace which were prescribed for them by the Government through its military agents here. There are some few of the tribe who have not done so and who perhaps may never do so, and these few may continue to steal as they have stolen heretofore. But that does not affect the facts that over seven thousand of the tribe have submitted themselves to the terms; that those seven thousand are living peacefully and contentedly at the Bosque Redondo and have been during the summer successfully engaged in raising large crops of corn, wheat, beans and other vegetables. Nor does it argue that because a few thieves are running at large, seven thousand more should be turned loose with them to assist them to do on a large scale, as it was being done only one year ago, what is now being done on a limited scale. Up to this time last year it was nothing unusual to have reports of robberies by the Navajos of one, two, five and ten thousand sheep at a time, and the occasions were not unrequited. Cattle and mules were stolen in the same proportion. This, however, was not the experience of an isolated year, but it was a repetition of occurrences of the past eight or ten years. Since December last we have no Navajo thefts of any magnitude to record. Their reported operations in the vicinity of Abiquiá and the Tierra Amarilla have been limited indeed in comparison with those of former years and have been performed by those of the tribe who have never been to the Bosque Redondo. These thefts have been committed, if committed at all by Navajos, by those who are in the condition to which Steck, Army, Greiner, & Co would have the whole tribe returned. They live in their own country. All experience for the past ten years show that when they lived in their own country they lived by theft, and that the industry of the people of New Mexico provided them their subsistence. Now all is changed. They do not, as a tribe, live in their own country. They live on a reservation set apart for them by the Government and they live by their own industry and the assistance rendered them by the Government. The Territory of New Mexico has been relieved of her most destructive enemy, her industry has been relieved of its most imposing drawback and her natural resources have been left free to flourish without molestation, and all this without one cent of expense to the people and without any exertion on her part except to furnish the troops who did the work and who were amply paid for their services.

It is a well established fact that the sheep of Mr. Gonzales were stolen by the Apaches, for they were recovered from the Apaches. Mr. Parker's mules were stolen by the Apaches as is verified by the fact that they were seen in the possession of the Apaches.

Now would it not be well for the writer for the New Mexican to be more specific in his charges against the Navajos who have removed to the Bosque Redondo? Would it not be well for him to act fairly and come up to that standard of veracity which gives confidence to what is said in a newspaper, and state when, where and how thefts have been committed by the reservation Navajos who have been at the Bosque Redondo? We think so. The people will doubtless think so. But the writer, we opine, will not think so because that would devolve upon him the necessity of adducing proofs which neither he nor other living man can produce.

Dr. J. M. McNulty and lady will start to the States in Monday's coach.

The Doctor came to the Territory with the "Column from California" in 1862 and has during his residence here held high positions in the medical department. Previous to the arrival of Dr. Bryan he was Medical Director and Parvicer. He is not only esteemed a gentleman of high standing in his profession but also in social life, and his friends will greatly regret his departure.

He is ordered to the Army of the Potomac where we believe it is his intention to report as soon as circumstances will permit.

We understand that Mr. C. G. Parker has returned from the pursuit of the Indians who stole his mules, and that he reports to have seen them but in consequence of the manner in which they were mounted and armed it was impossible, to retake the animal.

The Indians who committed the robbery it is said, were Coyotero Apaches and made their way to the San Francisco Mountains.

Reading:—Mr. Hunt at his Library, in the Post Office building has replenished his assortment of books which he now offers to his subscribers as a circulating library.

The terms of subscription to the Library are $5 per quarter to regular subscribers or ten cents per day to transient subscribers.

Col. Collins arrived in the coach from the States on Thursday, after an absence of nearly six months.

Col. McFerran, Chief Quartermaster, and Capt. Bell, Chief Commissary of subsistence for the department of New Mexico have gone to Fort Union on an official visit.

Appointed:—Judges Usher and Hubbell have been appointed in the places of Knapp and Judge Brochus who have been removed. It is now to be hoped that we will soon have some Judges in the Territory. We have not been informed at what time the new appointees will start to come to their place of duty.

Gen. Carleton has been on a visit to Fort Union for the past ten days. He, we understand, went there for the purpose personally witnessing the departure of the main body of the troops which he had ordered to the plains from this Department.

Lieut. Col. Chaves, 1st Cav. N. M. Vols. and Maj. E. B. Willis of the California volunteers, arrived in the city from Arizona last week. These officers have seen a great deal of service in Arizona since the organization of that Territory and have made themselves well acquainted with its geography.

Messrs Amberg & Elsberg have moved their store to their new buildings on the north west corner of the Plaza.

KNAPP REMOVED:—We are happy in being able to announce to the people of the Territory that the Administration at Washington has relieved them from the presence in their midst of Knapp as an associate Judge for New Mexico. His conduct whilst he occupied a seat on the bench here was such as to disgust all who admire honesty and probity in a Judge, and his unofficial life brought him into a depth of contempt that men in official position seldom attain. He and Holmes and Army are the only ones that have, to our knowledge, ever attained it here. Could the President relieve us of the letter as he has of the former two how gratified the Territory would be.

Post Roads:—By an act of the last session of Congress the following post roads, in which our people have an interest, were established:

From San Buena Ventura, California, via Ravenna city, and Big Meadows on the Mohave river, to the sink of said river, and thence to Port Mohave on the Colorado river, and Fort Whipple, to Santa Fe, New Mexico.

From Los Angeles, to La Paz, and thence to the capital of Arizona Territory and thence to Santa Fe.

From Denver, Colorado, via Panchero Pass and Conejos, to Santa Fe New Mexico; These are all important mail routes and will if properly managed be of great utility to Santa Fe. Those to California, if the contracts for carrying the mails should be awarded to enterprising and competent persons, will beyond doubt open up, through Santa Fe, the main channel of travel and communication between the Atlantic and Pacific.

Nature has from the beginning pointed this out as the route to be traveled between the two coasts, but political influences and private interests have denied Nature her proper voice in matter. Now, elements, which have arisen out of the organization of Arizona Territory, are at work which will give Nature, a chance to demonstrate the advantages which she has placed within the reach of mortals here below, and which, appealing to all the instincts which are most powerful in the government of human actions, will guide capital and enterprise in a path heretofore unknown or covered up by a prejudice that was difficult of removal. In a short period of time these developments will be before the world.

We need direct communication with Denver City and it is to be hoped that the above mentioned mail route between Santa Fe and Denver will meet the wants of the people of the two Territories.

LEIB DEFEATED:—The voters of Arizona have done a noble act in defeating Leib, the political mountebank, who had the impudence to set himself before them as a candidate for Delegate in Congress. An impostor of the most recent kind, he moves from community to community, making pretensions of the most lofty character, plants himself upon the people as a public pauper and thus lives as long as the different communities will subsidize him. It was thus with him in New Mexico. He lived here as long as he could in his peculiar method and finally went to Arizona as a charity patient.

With him he will go from Arizona, his race having been run there, cannot be imagined at the present writing. He is represented as being completely run down at the heel, without friends, and, of course, destitute of the means of obtaining a support, all looking upon him that pitiless unconcern which usually marks the conduct of the public towards the tribe of unworthy pretenders and false hearted knaves to which he belongs.

So far as moral principle is concerned he is of the same class as Holmes, Knapp and Army of official notoriety in this Territory—Dissolute of any such principle.

Since writing the above we have received the Arizona Miner of August 19th from which we clip the following paragraphs in reference to the election:

Elsewhere a list of the successful candidates so far as known at the office of the Miner, is given. It will be noticed that our prediction as to the vote upon the Delegate was correct. Tucson alone gave a majority for Poston, of more than enough to counterbalance the vote of Dr. Leib in the upper country. Indeed the Doctor received but a single vote out of the two hundred cast in Tucson, while at most of the precincts below the Gila he received none. Col. Poston's total majority is about 400, and that with a very light vote cast in all the southern country.

The election of Colonel Poston will, we believe, be highly advantageous to the Territory. Acquainted, from long residence here, with what is necessary to the successful development of our resources; holding pleasant relations with the Territorial officers, and anxious to co-operate with them, and (as we happen to know) on terms of intimacy with the President, his father's early neighbor and friend in Kentucky, he will be able to render efficient service at Washington. Having no personal difficulties to settle there, his time and attention will be given to the Territory, and to a cordial support of the Union and the government. His published declaration on this point was in these words:

"Dis-Union is the greatest calamity that could befall the American people, and every exertion necessary to preserve our Nationality must be made. In the heart of every true patriot the Nationality of the American people soars above every other interest or prejudice. In the motto of my native State, 'United we stand, divided we fall.' The President has, in my humble judgment, always evinced an honest desire to preserve the integrity of the Union in every way consistent with the dignity of a great and powerful Nation."

This explicit language is in striking contrast with the subterfuge of some of the boasted Union candidates, and, with his triumphant election, is a withering rebuke to the cabal of partisans who have constantly called the Colonel a dis-Unionist, for the want of some other argument whereby to promote their own selfish ends.

The Legislature is, for the most part, made up of first-class men, and will prove intelligent and industrious body, laboring zealously to promote the best interests of the whole Territory, regardless of personal prejudices or local jealousies. We congratulate the people upon their having secured law-makers so competent and worthy.

From Arizona:

We have been permitted to publish the following private letter from Secretary McCormick of Arizona to Gen. Carleton, which will be found interesting to our readers:

Prescott, August 3rd, 1864.

Gen. J. H. Carleton,
General:—I now have the honor to send you a box of specimens from the best gold and silver lodes in this portion of Arizona. The mine is given with each, and the lodes are all within 20 to 30 miles of Prescott. I must except the Vulture, which is below the town of Weaver. So far as assayed the work promises well and the lodes are excellently located for working. In this respect they are much in advance of those in Washo and in some parts of this Territory. Most of the specimens sent are from the cropping rock. Few if any shafts have been sunk. The deepest, that upon the Benedict silver lode, is but sixty feet. The Montgomery the—and the Vulture have been profitably worked with arrastras but, of course, mills are needed to test them fully. There is a growing confidence in the veins, and those best fitted to judge think it will be but a few months before we must have a good supply of machinery and a largely increased population. Capital is, of course, indispensable to the working of quartz. It is to be regretted that our Placers, while good and by no means exhausted are not sufficiently extensive to maintain a large population. Placers are always necessary to content those persons who cannot afford to await the opening of the lodes.

From accounting this district richest in silver quartz to giving gold the first place, our prospectors and assayers have now come to the conclusion that it is uncommonly prolific in both of the precious metals. In many of the mines gold and silver are found in about equal proportions.

One mill is on the way here. Others will follow it without delay, and by the coming spring, at the latest, we hope to have busy and prosperous times here. The weakening of the Apaches, the salubrity of the climate and other things warrant the people in the belief that the region is speedily to be developed. From Fort Mojave and El Dorado Cañon we have most encouraging reports. The lodes there are large and rich, and the mill at the Cañon is doing a fine business. Six more are ordered.

From below the Gila the accounts are also satisfactory. Machinery is en route to the Piche mine, and the Patagonia, Cerro Colorado and San Antonio mines are being vigorously and successfully worked.

I am, General,
Your obt. Servt.,
R. C. M. CORMICK.
